Perth 31 miles (50 km), Edinburgh 75 miles (121 km), Glasgow 71 miles (115 km).
(All distances are approximate).

SITUATION

Drumcroy is located approximately 0.8 miles (1.3km) to the east of Aberfeldy and is nestled amongst the undulating foothills of the Highland fringe. The overall site is charming and benefits from principally open views of the adjacent bank of the River Tay and Strathtay with a far-reaching outlook to both the east and west.

The historic market town of Aberfeldy, which was first made famous through the works of Robert Burns and his poem The Birks of Aberfeldy, is well known for its scenic beauty. It has earned enduring popularity and is Scotland's first Fairtrade town, with retailers and attractions throughout the area doing their best to promote Fairtrade, organic and environmentally friendly products. The town itself offers a fine selection of local shops, restaurants and a cinema, as well as banking and medical services.

Situated on the banks of the River Tay, Aberfeldy is approximately 10 miles (16 km) from the A9 trunk road, which provides access to Perth and the South as well as North towards Inverness. The A9 also provides access to both Pitlochry and Dunkeld & Birnam Stations, which are approximately 14 miles (22km) and 18 miles (28km) from the property respectively and offer a timetable of services, including the overnight sleeper to London Euston.

Recreationally, there are an abundance of opportunities in the area including golf courses at Aberfeldy, Kenmore, Killin, Strathtay, Pitlochry and Dunkeld. Watersports are available at nearby Loch Tay and along the famous River Tay, which also offers salmon fishing. There are many famous beauty spots nearby including Glen Lyon and The Queen's View at Loch Tummel. The surrounding woods, Moorland and hills offer an abundance of walking and climbing opportunities with several Munros such as Schiehallion and Ben Lawers in the vicinity. The Scottish Highlands offer Skiing and mountain biking at Aviemore, Glenshee and Aonach Mor.

GENERAL DESCRIPTION

Drumcroy previously formed part of the neighbouring farm and has been granted planning permission for an exciting and bespoke development of holiday properties. The Mews at Drumcroy Lodges is a terrace of nine, three-bedroom mews-style houses, set to augment the wider development of contemporary, architect-designed lodges (Planning Reference Number: 21/01363/FLL).

Designed by the highly regarded local architects, Fearn Macpherson, to a high specification, the proposed mews properties incorporate modern materials, whilst being sympathetic to the local vernacular and maximising the use of space and light.

Set within the broader development of two- and three-bedroom Lodges, the layout of the properties on the site has been carefully considered to maximise the views whilst affording a degree of privacy to both the lodges and the mews houses. The properties have been nestled into the hillside with a private road providing access from the A827. Drumcroy offers purchasers an exceptional opportunity to make the most of Highland splendour, located in an accessible position within walking distance, or a short drive, from the highland market town of Aberfeldy.
